

Newsflash

safety

integrity

respect

responsibility

innovation

delivery

New leadership at Gold Fields Ghana

We are excited to welcome Dr Celestina Allotey to Gold Fields as Vice President and Head of Sustainable Development (SD) in West Africa, effective 1 August 2020. A member of the regional executive committee (Rexco), she reports directly to the regional EVP, Alfred Baku, and will be responsible for SD technical, social (community relations), as well as environmental and social risk mitigation.

Dr Celestina Allotey

Celestina holds a PhD and MSc in Geoenvironmental Engineering from the University of Western Ontario, Canada, among her many academic credentials. She has over 20 years' industry experience as a researcher, senior manager, and consultant, most recently with AngloGold Ashanti, where she headed environment and closure planning.

Francis Eduku

As of 1 August Francis Eduku will thus be giving up his acting role as Head of SD for West Africa and will focus on his other two portfolios – Human Resources and Corporate Affairs – which he leads as VP. In this role he is responsible for people strategy and organisational effectiveness, government and public/media relations, strategic communications, and regional branding. Francis, who joined Gold Fields Ghana in 2014, will remain a key member of the Rexco team.

For more on these two appointments read the attached note from Alfred.

Share your feedback on this Newsflash: Email GroupComms@goldfields.com

